2 Lieutenants Also Victims Of Tribesmen

Announcement of Ex-Premier's Death Raises War Threat

ELISABETHVILLE, the Congo (AP)—African villagers killed former Premier Patrice Lumumba Sunday night, the Katanga government announced today. The announcement brought a new threat of civil war for all the Congo.

Godefroid Munongo, interior minister of Katanga Province which has seceded from the rest of the Congo, said the villagers massacred Lumumba and two lieutenants just two days after the Katanga government announced their escape from detention.

Lumumba, firebrand of Congo independence and first premier of the new country, was 35.

"We will not disclose the name of the village nor the tribe to which the villagers belong because we do not want them to suffer any reprisals in the future," Munongo said.

Died Near Escape Car

But he asserted they did not far from where their escape car had been found. This spot previously was described as 45 miles from the farmhouse the three men fled Friday. This, in turn, was 220 miles west of Elisabethville.

The death of Lumumba is bound to have widespread repercussions in the Congo, where tribal rivalries are fierce.

He became premier when the Congo attained independence from Belgium last June 30. Soon Soviet technicians and equipment were flowing into the Congo, along with a U. N. peace force of 20,000 men which Lumumba at first welcomed, then repudiated.

In September, Congo President Joseph Kasavubu, after weeks of uncertainty, threw Lumumba out of office and sent him to jail for trial on charges of crimes against the nation.

But even in detention Lumumba made his weight felt, and at the time of his death his followers were in control of about a third of the Congo.

Point of Contention

The status of the country has become a point of contention between East and West. The United Nations Security Council was assembling in New York to deal with the problem today as the Katanga government made its announcement of Lumumba's death.

Some U. N. officials had expressed belief the Katanga government's report of Lumumba's escape last Friday was a story designed to cover up his death.

But Interior Minister Munongo insisted African villagers killed Lumumba, along with two lieutenants, Maurice Mpolo and Joseph Okito, just outside their village Sunday night. He said the three were buried there.

"Three cabinet ministers (of the Katanga government) left by plane to see the bodies in order to investigate the killings," Munongo told reporters.

Munongo said earlier 100 police and provincial troops had been thrown into a search for the Lumumba party, with helicopters and spotter planes. One of these planes sighted the car in which Lumumba supposedly fled.

Katanga Province, headed by Moise Tshombe, broke away from Lumumba's central Congo government as Lumumba took over the prime ministry last summer. This was one of the sorest points the Lumumba regime had to face.

Because Katanga has most of the Congo's mineral riches.

After his arrest Lumumba was

Segregated Movies Protested

Race Demonstrations Mark Lincoln's Day

By The Associated Press

Hundreds of young people observed emancipator Abraham Lincoln's birthday with demonstrations against segregated motion picture theaters and in support of the "jail, no bail" stand of some imprisoned Negro students.

White persons and Negroes, North and South, protested segregated movies. In some instances pairs of white youths and Negroes made unsuccessful attempts to get into all-white sections of Southern theaters.

At San Antonio, Tex., a bomb was reported placed in the 3,600-seat Majestic Theater shortly after an integration demonstration. About 350 persons were inside at the time. The building was searched but no bomb was found.

The demonstration at San Antonio followed the same pattern used in Austin, Houston, and Dallas, Tex.

At Austin pickets showed their disapproval of the segregationist policies of the governors of Louisiana and Arkansas by introducing some words of their own for the traditional text of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

"We'll send Jimmie Davis to an integrated hell," they said, and "We'll hang Orval Faubus to a sour apple tree."

In Austin and Houston the crowds of Negro and white demonstrators swelled to 200 or more. About 50 each marched in Dallas and San Antonio.

Students also demonstrated outside theaters in New York, Boston and Chicago which do not segregate Negroes, but have common ownership with Southern theaters which do.

At Rock Hill, S.C., about 1,000 Negroes from many Southern states attended a rally in a church in support of the "jail, no bail" stand of 13 imprisoned Negro college students.

The students went to jail for 30 days rather than post bonds to appeal their convictions of trespassing by refusing to leave the segregated lunch counter of a Rock Hill variety store.

A committee to plan for the sesquicentennial observance of the Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends was named when the quarterly meeting was held Saturday at the East Goshen Friends Church.

The observance has been scheduled for the year 1963 at the time of the Friends' annual gathering at Damascus.

The committee includes Rev. Harold B. Winn and Mrs. Milford Landward of Salem, Professor Amos Henry and Dr. Byron Osborne of Malone College, Canton; Miss Emily Moore of Damascus, Ted Brantingham of Winona and Rev. Herbert Handy, retired.

The Ohio Yearly Meeting was organized by the Quakers at Short Creek in 1813 and the headquarters has been at Mt. Pleasant and Damascus, but at the latter site for many years.

Rev. Winn, quarterly meeting superintendent, presided at Saturday's meeting when plans also were made for discussion for the new Friends church to be built at Poland, O., in a merger of the Struthers and East Lewistown congregations.

Galen Weingart is in charge at Struthers and David Mylon at Lewistown.

A women's missionary retreat was scheduled for March 21 at Malone College. Mrs. Winn is program chairman, assisted by Mrs. Glendon McKenzie of Salem. The men's group will hold a dinner meeting in March.

Herman Stratton was presiding clerk for the Saturday session.

Police are continuing their investigation today into the reported stabbing of a 17-year-old Salem boy behind the Strouss Appliance Store early this morning.

The boy was brought to the station at 5:06 a.m. today by his mother, where he told police that an unidentified assailant had earlier "jumped me and stabbed me in the left side of the back."

The youth was treated at Salem Central Clinic.

Investigation by police revealed that an eight-inch cut appears on the boy's coat, but that the boy's wound is only three inches long. The cut on the coat is also eight inches lower than the actual wound on the left side of the youth's back and did not penetrate through the entire coat, Police Chief Martin Lutsch said.

The youth was treated at Salem Central Clinic.

4 Executives Begin Terms

Group Sentenced For Fixing Prices

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Four more high-salaried electrical firm executives were to start 30-day prison sentences today for fixing prices and rigging bids in America's biggest federal antitrust case.

Two of the seven officials ordered jailed a week ago in the smashing of the giant conspiracy already are behind bars. They surrendered unexpectedly Friday—three days ahead of schedule.

The seventh—John Marvin Cook, 54, Fox Point, Wis.—was granted a delay in starting his jail term because of his daughter's engagement party this week. He is marketing vice president of Cutler-Hammer, Inc., Milwaukee.

Slated for prison today in nearby Norristown are:

William S. Ginn, 45, General Electric Co. vice president from Schenectady, N.Y., who bossed 17,000 employees in seven plants of the nation's largest electrical firm.

George E. Burens, 55, GE vice president on special assignment for manufacturing services at Louisville, Ky.

Lewis J. Burger, 48, Fort Wayne, Ind., GE division manager who formerly headed the switchgear division, succeeding Burens in that job.

Edwin R. Jung, 58, vice president of Clark Controller Co., Cleveland. Jung has been with Clark 33 years.

The two Westinghouse Electric Corp. executives already in prison are John H. Chiles Jr., 57, Sharon, Pa., vice president of the transformer division, and Charles L. Mauntel, 60, Drexel Hill, Pa., sales manager of the steam turbine division.

The seven men ordered to jail were among 44 executives and 29 electrical firms sentenced last Monday and Tuesday by U.S. Dist. Judge J. Cullen Ganey.

No Indication of Speed

There was no indication of the rocket's present speed. But the first announcement said that at noon Sunday Moscow time the space station already was 126,300 kilometers—75,780 miles—from the earth. The Soviets said the traveler's radio transmitter and other equipment were functioning normally and that the station was being tracked by a special center.

Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's giant Jodrell Bank radio telescope, hailed the launching as "fantastic" and wished the Soviets good luck in their bid to reach Venus.

Prof. Harrie Massey, chairman of Britain's National Committee on Space Research, said the Soviets have launched "an extraordinary

Space Traveler Should Reach Planet In May

Scientists Praise Complex Operation; U. S. Not Surprised

MOSCOW (AP)—A 1,418 pound Soviet "space station" hurtled toward a Mid-May rendezvous with the planet Venus today after a spectacular piggy-back launching the United States does not expect to achieve for another 18 to 24 months.

The space traveler carrying a banner emblazoned with the Soviet coat of arms should reach the area of Venus when earth's sister planet will be about 26 million miles away, the Soviets said.

The latest Soviet space shot—second in eight days—was aimed at investigating conditions on and around the planet, whose perpetual mantle of clouds has made it a mystery to scientists.

The aim is either to hit Venus or to have the ship pass closely enough to send back detailed studies, Victor Razykin, director of the Moscow Planetarium, told reporters today. He said it was far from certain the ship will hit the mysterious planet.

The space ship has a radio transmitter believed capable of sending messages across millions of miles of space, but Razykin said it has not been announced whether the vehicle carries equipment to relay photographs back to Earth. He declined to speculate on this.

Scientists and officials on both sides of the iron curtain hailed the Venus shot as the greatest space feat since the Soviet Union orbited her first Sputnik three years ago. It adds to the Soviet Union's other claimed accomplishments, which include hitting the moon with a rocket, photographing the far side of the moon and orbiting the sun.

Issues Terse Statement

The White House issued a terse statement that President Kennedy had been advised of the rocket firing and that the United States had been tracking it ever since. A Defense Department spokesman said the Pentagon knew about the firing before the Soviet Union announced it Sunday.

Dr. Hugh Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said in Washington the United States is at least 1½ to 2 years from achieving the kind of several-stage launching of such a large object reported by the Soviets. But he said he was not surprised by the announcement.

"We have known for some time," Dryden said, "that they had the booster (rocket) capability for such a mission."

The Soviet announcement indicated the Venus launching was an extremely complex operation. It said a multistage rocket carried a Sputnik into orbit, another rocket was launched from the Sputnik and the second rocket fired off "an automatic interplanetary" station with the intent either of hitting Venus or going into orbit around it.

DiSalle, Cloud Trade Blasts

Ohio Budget Battle Shifts From Figures to Personalities

By DUANE E. CROFT
Salem News Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The battle-ground for the Ohio budget war shifted momentarily from figures to personalities last week.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle made the switch when he leveled a barrage of fire directly at House Speaker Rober Cloud, R-Logan, calling him "completely partisan" and "dictatorial."

The blast was prompted by a statement from Cloud earlier in the day, which was really only a review of the Republican stand on the manner in which the governor had submitted his unbalanced budget recommendations.

At the beginning of the afternoon session the day after the governor spoke his piece, Cloud made a little speech urging the legislators to be both patient and courteous with the chief executive because, he said, DiSalle has a very difficult job.

Cloud is courteous. The advice was itself offered in the most courteous tones.

The exchange between the governor and the speaker illustrated that if politics sometimes makes strange bedfellows, it also can make strange enemies.

Although DiSalle and Cloud possess markedly different personalities, they are not so far apart; as superficial events sometimes make them appear to be.

They are both sincere in their personal dedication to the cause of good government and political responsibility.

They are more apt to support a middle-of-the-road route over an extreme stand on any issue. This makes them both essentially compromisers, albeit they frequently take strikingly different paths toward the achievement of compromise.

Agree on Many Items. On many specific issues they are in basic agreement, as on the desirability of abolishing the use of sales tax stamps, the need for freeing more tax sources for local governments, the need to consider revising the excise base of the state's own taxing structure and opposition to a state income tax.

Fundamentally, they both like to strike for an understanding of the other fellow's point of view, even if they do not agree with it.

These very qualities probably account for their ascendancy to positions of leadership in their respective parties. But it is those positions that have created the political no-man's land between them.

Each has a responsibility to state and fight for his party's position in the governmental process. This means the differences, rather than the similarities, must be emphasized when political wisdom dictates.

What's the Motive? There is no doubt, for instance, that Cloud understands the political reasons for DiSalle's submitting the unbalanced budget plan: The governor wanted to put the GOP in the position of cutting down on funds for such programs as schools, mental health and aid to dependent children.

Neither is there any doubt the governor understands why the speaker balked at walking into the trap: The Republicans would rather start with an even-stein budget plan and then find the money for needy programs by chopping away at executive expenditures elsewhere.

The issue is not false. There are some real differences in party philosophy involved. But the irony is that two men who otherwise might get along famously find themselves as far apart as the earth's poles.

Cloud touched the heart of the matter when he told newsmen that DiSalle should remember the political advice of his former boss, Harry S. Truman: "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."

And as he said it, Cloud left the strong implication that he realized the advice applies to himself.

A Deal of Costs. Cloud and Sen. C. Stanley Mechem, Republican leader of the upper chamber, made a deal between themselves on the matter of legislative expenses.

In an informal confab with newsmen, Mechem was talking about the cuts he envisions in the appropriations bills and added that some of them could be pretty close to home.

"We'll cut the costs of the Senate as much as the House cuts theirs," he said with a smile at Cloud.

"That's all right with me," replied the speaker.

How about a $100,000? asked "Okay," answered Cloud, squirming a bit at the hazards of putting himself so pointedly on record at this early stage in the legislative game.

Just Like Mickey

Two schoolboys visiting the Statehouse were taking a long look at the giant painting of Thomas A. Edison that hangs outside the governor's office.

It contains likenesses of the famous Ohio son as he looked in boyhood, middle age and later life.

After some silent observation, one youngster said to the other: "I think he really did look like Mickey Rooney when he was little."

"Why is it that some people suffer more from cold than others?" asks a Floridian. "When the temperature gets below 60, I can't seem to get comfortable. Is there any way I can be helped?"

SURE THERE IS, dear lady. But please don't hate me after you've read my suggestions.

While there are a very few people, such as the aged and younger persons with marked thyroid deficiencies, who are understandably sensitive to cold, the vast majority of the cold-sensitive owe their sensitivity to coddling.

That's what I said. Coddling. They overheat their quarters during the day. They under-ventilate their bed room at night. They swathe themselves in layers of clothes when they venture out and then run to cover if the wind stirs or they feel a draft. They bury themselves in coverings at night. They bathe in near scalding water at night because they're fearful of catching cold if they go out after a tub or shower. And when they go out, they put on earmuffs, mittens over gloves and lined boots over their shoes.

Now all these devices merely serve to make you more sensitive to cold. So, if you want to desensitize yourself, you've got to switch your tactics. Not all at once, but gradually.

TRY KEEPING ROOM temperatures just below 70 during the day and 65 at night. See if you can't be comfortable with one or two light blankets, well tucked in on all sides, while you sleep. Sponge yourself off with cool to cold water after you've tubbed. Or, preferably, take a cool to cold wash-off after a shower. If the cold hits you when you stick your nose outdoors, don't turn tail and dash for the radiator. Take deep breaths, swing your arms and get going in any direction so long as it's away from home.

You may not like it at first. But, if you have the fortitude to stick at it, you'll find that cold is stimulating.

Sorry you asked?

Window Shutters Only Bang In Mystery Tales These Days

Shutters don't bang in the wind anymore, except in mystery stories. Nor does anyone rush to close them when a storm howls outside.

Storm windows have proved more efficient, less troublesome and shutters today are simply decorative.

But their lack of functionality isn't likely to make them extinct.

Cozy, indeed. There's nothing cozy looking about storm windows. But the most useless shutters give a house the appearance of warmth.

If your house appears barn-like, shutters may be just what it needs. They'll break up bare walls, can make narrow walls look wider by emphasizing horizontal lines, or short walls appear higher by using vertical lines.

Since they'll be weather-beaten, use redwood, cypress or exterior grade plywood.

Choose rust-proof hardware too, such as brass screws, aluminum nails and waterproof glue for mitered joints.

Go Wild

Shutters can be as simple or as elaborate as you like. You can let your imagination run wild.

Size will be determined by your window opening — make each shutter as high as the opening and half as wide. Of course, if you never close them, no one will know if they're the right width anyway.

A couple of boards held together with cross pieces at top and bottom makes an effective shutter. Have the cross pieces show if you want horizontal lines, hide them behind the upright boards for a strong vertical line.

Patterns

A solid piece of 3/4-inch plywood can be used for shutter. A or almost anything — can be cut pattern—circle, diamond, square out in advance with a jig saw or coping saw. The colors of shutters and house should be a strong contrast for the cutout design to show.

Or cut the pattern from a second piece of wood and glue and nail it to the shutter. Paint the back of the extra piece before fastening it.

Strips of wood can be used the same way. Fasten them vertically, horizontally or diagonally.

Tongue and groove boards or drop siding can be used for unusual effects. Fasten in back with strips of wood or strap iron.

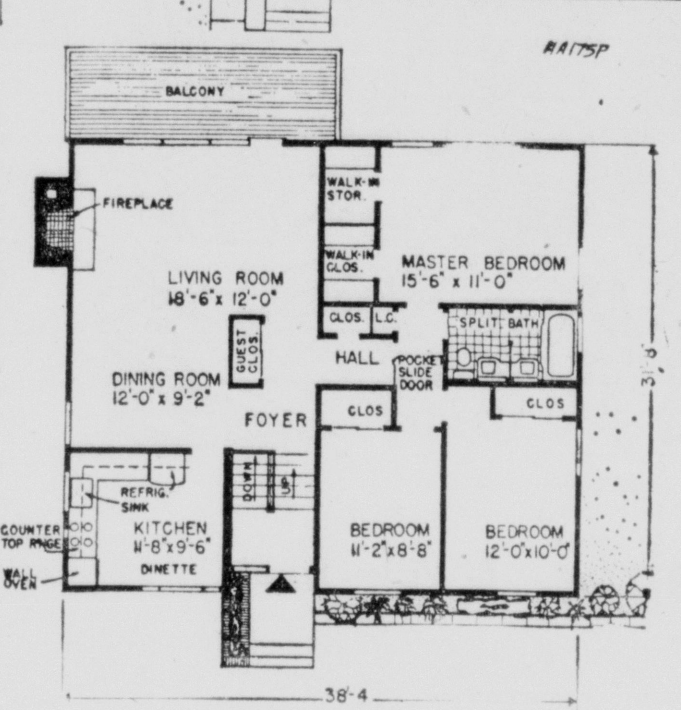

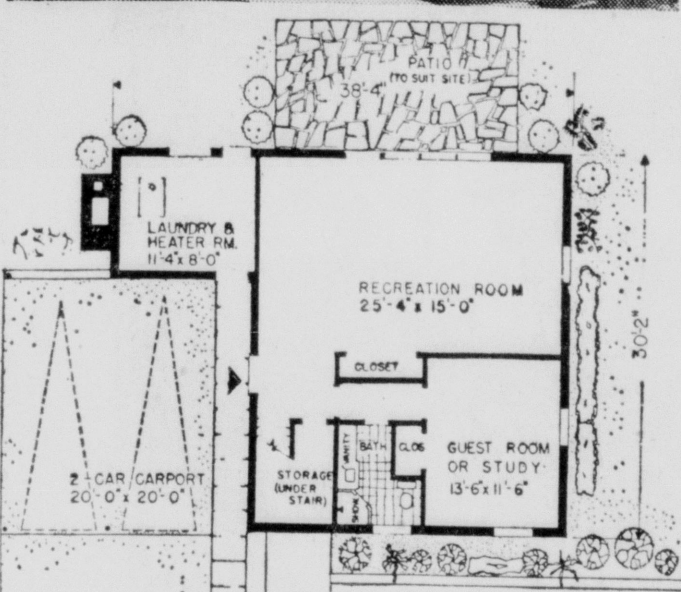

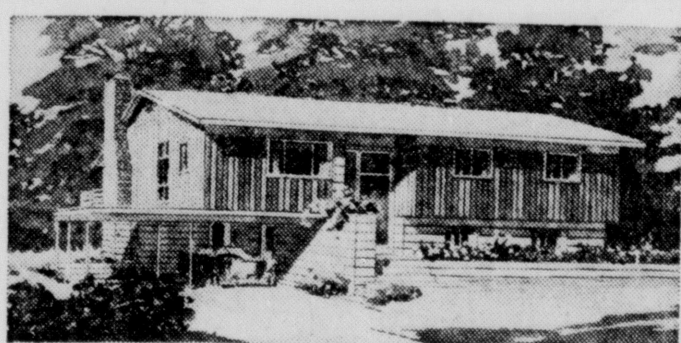

Paint First

Paint shutters before mounting. Simplest method of mounting is to nail them to the wall. For brick walls use special nails or screws and anchors.

If you decide to mount them with hinges plan for a pair of 3-inch butt hinges for each panel. Holdbacks can be installed even on the decorative ones, must be on those that are hinged.

A holdback is a decorative metal piece that pivots on a screw, is mounted on the wall at the base of the shutter to hold it open.

"Kiwi" was a slang term used in World War II for men in the Air Corps who did not fly.

ECONOMY HOUSE — This contemporary two-story home fits the requirements of a small plot, a limited budget and flexibility. All the necessary rooms — kitchen, living, dining and bedrooms — are included on the main level. The lower level offers the possibility of becoming a basement, recreation room or even a rental apartment. With a two-car carport, the house is designed to fit a 70 by 100 foot lot. The architect is Samuel Paul, 89-51 164 St., Jamaica 32, N. Y. and the plan is HA175P.

Carport Can Be Prelude To Home's Future Garage

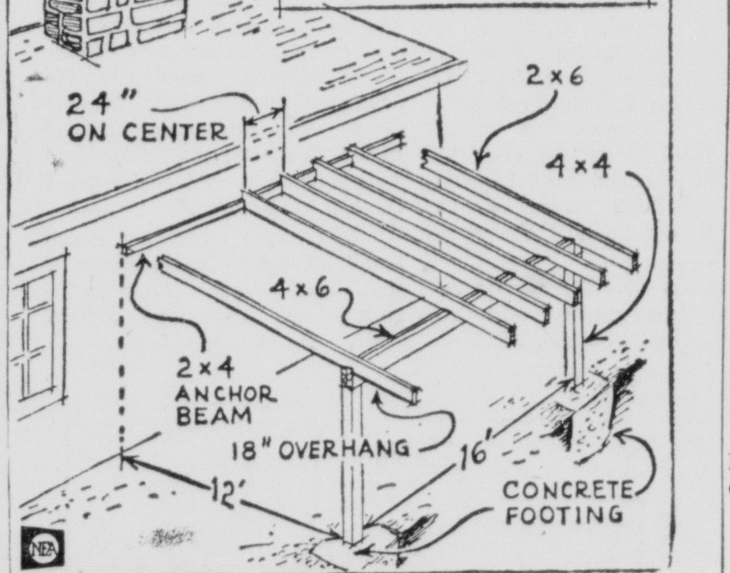

If your budget doesn't permit putting up a garage this spring, why not settle for a carport? If well constructed and planned it can be converted to a garage in a later step.

Meanwhile you can offer the family car some shelter and even have a roofed over patio of sorts during the summer.

The carport is native to warmer climates where rain and hot sun are the only considerations. If you live where there is plenty of snow plan on a roof that will bear the heavy load.

The carport is generally anchored to one wall of the house. This wall, a roof and two or more posts on the other side of the roof are the bare minimum requirements for a carport.

The carport also can be a way frost line. Strap iron or an angle iron should be inserted in the concrete before it hardens. Bolt the post to this.

Variations

There can be variations. The roof needn't be flat. It could follow the peaked roof of the house. Mount two anchor beams on the wall so that they form the same angle as the peaked roof.

The roof should be covered with wood sheathing and roll roofing. Be sure to use flashing where roof and wall meet. The flashing should be inserted under the row of clapboards or shingles immediately above the roof. It should then bend outward over the top layer of roofing and be sealed with asphalt.

Build your carport big enough. You can squeeze into an eight or nine-foot width, but 12 feet will permit you to open doors a little easier. A 12 or 18-inch overhang on the edge of the roof will offer more protection against sun and rain. Make the carport at least 16 feet long.

Before or After

It's easier to put in a concrete slab before the carport is finished, but because of its open construction it can be done after as well. Use wire mesh over the rock and gravel fill.

Sides needn't be left completely open. Fence rails, plywood panels, louvers, even trellises with climbing vines can be used for increased privacy and a little shelter.

Before going ahead with any construction check with your local building department. There may be setback requirements and side-yard restrictions that may alter your building plans. If, because of these, you can't build against your house remember that there is such a thing as a free-standing carport.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: I am building several cabinets and want to make the doors of the same kind of striated plywood that is on the walls of my den. However, this striated plywood is only one-eighth of an inch thick and obviously much too fragile for use as a door. I have tried two lumber yards and can not get the striated wood any thicker than one-quarter of an inch. If I glue the eighth-inch plywood to some three-quarter inch plywood, will it hold permanently in a door which will be opened and closed quite often?

ANSWER: If it is glued properly with a good quality glue, it will hold "permanently." That's how three-quarter inch plywood is made in the first place, by gluing together sheets of thin wood. The striations in the type of wood you will use as a facing very effectively conceal brads or small nails. That makes it possible to glue the two pieces of wood together, then brad them at a few strategic points to give added pressure to the bonding while the glue is setting. Incidentally, if you want something a little extra special, buy squares of the striated plywood instead of a single large sheet. Glue these squares onto the three-quarter-inch plywood, placing them so that the grains of adjacent squares run in opposite directions. You will get a pleasing light and dark effect, depending on where you are standing when viewing the result. The squares can be finished exactly the same as you would have finished a single sheet.

Selection of Wall Materials Depends on Many Factors

What's the best wall material for an extra room in the house?

Don't let anybody give you a flat answer to that question unless he has first asked you a lot of questions. There are many factors to be considered, not the least of which is the use to which the room will be put and the amount of money that is to be spent.

Also, entirely aside from the practical considerations, there is the very unpredictable element of personal preference. You have to like the appearance of the new room or your reasons for selecting a particular kind of wall material will seem less and less important as time goes on.

How then do you decide? By looking over ALL the available materials, by asking questions, by reading booklets and by inspecting finished installations, either in model rooms displayed by dealers or in the home of friends.

As a starter, let's see what some of your choices are. There is inexpensive gypsum board, which is a form of plaster covered on both sides by strong treated paper. The most common form requires the filling of the joints before painting or papering.

Asbestos cement board looks like gypsum board, but costs more and is ideal for bathrooms, laundry rooms and furnace enclosures because it is water resistant as well as fireproof.

Fiberboard or insulating board has an inside core of wood fiber, sugar cane residue or some other fibrous vegetable material and comes with a predecorated finish.

Hardboard is made of wood fibers bonded in hydraulic presses to form a material of great strength with a smooth surface. It is excellent in rooms that will be subjected to hard usage, since it resists dents and other bruises. One type of hardboard comes with a plastic surface that combines good looks with durability.

There are many other kinds of suitable wall materials, including regular wood paneling and plywood. And then, of course, there is gypsum lath and plaster, strong, durable and offering excellent fire protection.

In any case, select what pleases you and what fits your purpose and pocketbook.

If We Remember What We Learned

Twenty-eight years ago, Americans were waiting for March 4 and the inauguration of Franklin Roosevelt. Unemployment was severe. Confidence had been shattered by knowledge that a worldwide depression was running its grim course and by knowledge that in the United States there was no common agreement on what should be done.

President Hoover and his advisers believed that there could be no substantial improvement until confidence had been restored; that in no other way could investors and employers be persuaded to make the decisions that would create jobs, wealth and buying power. They were trying to restore confidence.

They were under fire, scattered at first but later to be concentrated on the profit system, by a noisy faction of radicals backed up by Communists. Although in the campaign of 1932 Franklin Roosevelt had criticized the Hoover administration for spending public money recklessly, Mr. Roosevelt was about to be captured outright by a junta of spenders who would double federal outgo their first full year in power. They would quadruple it before the beginning of World War II.

But it is deeply significant that federal spending, which produces no wealth, never routed the depression. It was routed finally by the outbreak of World War II, when federal spending climbed to such huge proportions that virtually every citizen was affected.

PUBLIC SPENDING during the '30s had no substantial effect because it was not massive enough to have the effect of a war boom in itself and was no substitute for the wealth-creating operation of private capital.

The Roosevelt administration never found the key to investor confidence. After World War II the key was in the possession of the Truman administration, though not because of the administration's own policies. There was such a pent-up demand for goods that it was going to take years to satisfy it, was confidence in good markets for an indefinite time to come.

The postwar prosperity surge was aug-

The Snowplow Boys

Fortunate are those who live in parts of the country which have not felt the rigors of this winter, with its periodic heavy snowfalls and sub-zero temperatures.

Driving conditions have taxed the energy and skill of many motorists but it would have been worse had it not been for the good attention given to streets and highways in the Columbia-Mahoning County district by our city crews and the county and state highway departments.

The quick response by these workers when the snows came undoubtedly resulted in fewer accidents. This is in contrast to reports from some sections of the nation where plowing equipment sat idle for days. The public appreciates the good work of our road crews who seem to recognize that motoring safety requires the cooperation not only of the driver himself but of the people whose responsibility it is to maintain our streets and highways.

War On Vandalism

Parked cars have been the targets of vandals in Salem for too many weeks now. Almost daily one or more motorist reports his car damaged. Aerials have been broken, tops damaged, rear-view mirrors removed, and hub caps and gas caps stolen.

Assuming that youths old enough to know better are to blame, police might concentrate on catching a few of the offenders so that the courts could mete out punishment severe enough to deter similar action by other youths who quite obviously have no respect for other people's property. It's time some vigilant action was taken to curb vandalism and petty thievery.

Once Over

One "industry" knowing no recession is horse racing. The public has not stopped buying hunches, dreams hallucinations and bad information.

It isn't even necessary for tracks to imbedded as tonics by men in white coats or prove the package, have horse racing in make with commercial "No money down!"

You never hear the customers saying, "I don't like the trend economically." "I am deferring activities until the situation clears" or "Thanks for the information but I want to see how the economic council views the situation."

There is no record at any track of a horse player declaring "They've got to cut the price of $2 tickets. He never hesitates at a multi-fuel window to figure out if wrong tips are in oversupply or if the touts have inventory trouble."

Even after losing seven straight races he doesn't hold up and announce that "venture capital" has dried up or that playing the skimmers is dead unless Congress cuts taxes, passes a law for control of betting-odds and sees that racing addicts thrown out of lucky breaks get 32 weeks security payments and Federal horse tips.

Our mutual window economy is growing. I predict that in ten years there will be a fifty per cent increase in windows and a prosperity in which a man can afford to buy twice as many tickets as now. Tracks are in an expansion era. Before long there will be a dream track with mented by the Korean War, which added a small war boom to a sellers' market at the end of the Truman years.

UNDER DWIGHT EISENHOWER'S administration, there was a singular revival of confidence—strong enough to carry the economy through at least four minor recessions—strong enough to justify a spreading belief that the United States had learned to control the violent ups and downs that threatened to destroy it in the 19th century.

Americans had learned not to panic. They had found out there is no substitute for the creation of wealth by private enterprise. They had discovered what government could and could not do, and they knew it could not spend the country into prosperity.

On the other hand, it could encourage private enterprise to create wealth and employment. There was no limit to its good effect, if it remained mindful of the bad effect it could have.

This has become President Kennedy's task—to seek the good effect and avoid the bad effect.

As had been expected ever since the full effect of the tragic steel strike of 1959 finally became clear in 1960, the first half of 1961 has turned into a rough passage. Inventory displacements caused by the strike have borne their bitter fruit. The impact of the Steelworkers' refusal to gear operating practices to foreign competition has been felt on other industries. Unionism has taken an irreconcilable position.

THE NEWS is going to be confidence-shattering for awhile. Even though employment is high unemployment keeps growing as more young people enter the labor supply and massive dislocations wipe out jobs for skilled.

President Kennedy must do what Herbert Hoover was trying to do when Franklin Roosevelt was getting ready to take office. He must do what Mr. Roosevelt tried to do after he entered the White House. He must try to instill confidence in his countrymen—not confidence that their government will save themselves.

This is the test of the proposition that the United States has mastered the risk of pulling out of business slowdowns.

If President Kennedy remembers what was learned in the '30s and again in the '40s, he will keep his wild-eyed backers at bay and encourage all moderates to come to the aid of the republic with their confidence.

Do We Have It?

Luther H. Hodges, the new secretary of commerce, is going after tourist trade for the United States, to bring some of our dollars home where they belong.

If he has any luck, some of us may learn what it feels like to be colorful natives with cameras pointed at us by bad-mannered tourists jabbering in languages we can't understand. The question is whether we'll have what it takes.

A colorful native must be photogenic. He either should be quaint, or have some peculiarity of dress that a traveler can cackle about when he explains the pictures to friends he will gore with them when he gets back home.

There should be something historic in the background, to prove there was no fakery. And preferably when touring shutterbugs train their lenses on us we should be doing something interesting, like skinning a buffalo, having first removed the arrows.

It would be desirable, too, for American women to learn to do something picturesque, like carrying jugs on their shoulders, or holding flowers in their teeth. Tourists go for things like that.

Secretary Hodges is a cagey operator, by all accounts. He undoubtedly is working on a manual of stunts any Yankee Doodle can master to give gillies from faraway places a run for their money if they decide to see the United States before they die.

Asked if he thought himself extra smart as a show picker he replied, "No. I have a certain instinct but expect to run into streak of bad luck, like everybody else in show business."

President Kennedy will address U.N. Assembly. The rule against candor and straight talk will be suspended in his case, we take it.

Good name is wanted for Gotham's new National League ball club. This column thinks name should have a New York flavor, straight out of "East Side, West Side, all around the town, the kids play ring-a-rose, London Bridge is falling down. Crack-Down At the Border

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

This is the era of the banquet blues sung by those who have dais trouble. And not the least of those who have been moaning low are the veterans of the New York Democratic party who had a speakers table to fill for a Lincoln's Day eve "victory" dinner.

Victor Riesel

But official word from the White House was late in coming.

Matter of Fact

The mere touch of a king's hand was once believed to have healing powers. A noted 17th century English surgeon said, "I myself have been a frequent eyewitness of many hundreds of cures performed by his majesty's touch alone, without benefit of surgery."

This January, President Eisenhower has become only the second Republican president to complete two full terms. General Grant was the other. Several of the 13 Republican presidents came close. Lincoln was killed during his second term, as was McKinley. Theodore Roosevelt and Coolidge were elected after filling out predecessors terms.

Every great man is haunted by "ghosts." And ghosting isn't new. After the composer Haydn died, his publishers hired a ghost to write music they could sell as Haydn's. Today, even experts aren't sure which of Haydn's last symphonies are his.

Thoughts

It is the easiest thing in the world to obey God when He commands us to do what we like, and to trust Him when the path is all sunshine. The real victory of faith is to trust God in the dark and through the dark.—Theodore L. Cuyler.

From David learn to give thanks in everything. Every furrow in the book of Psalms is sown with seeds of thanksgiving.—Jeremy Taylor.

You said, Woe is me! For the Lord has added sorrow to my pain; I am weary with my groaning, and I find no rest.—Jeremiah 45:3.

Looking Backward

FROM THE NEWS FILES

5 YEARS AGO — Mrs. Jerid Smith, Mrs. Homer Detwiler and Mrs. Ida Fowler won prizes at a benefit card party sponsored by Beta Psi chapter.

10 YEARS AGO—Duane S. Guiler, Richard L. Conkle, Herbert F. Kelley, and John T. Cope have been pledged to fraternities at Mount Union College.

If you must disagree with somebody don't be too disagreeable about it.

ued for Feb. 18, also in New York. This one is the Liberal party's victory celebration and testimonial to Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg.

No banquet blues here. No dais trouble. On it will be Attorney General Robert Kennedy, in all his symbolism. He was invited early in the year. He accepted early.

THE LIBERAL PARTY easily is labor's most successful contribution to all the Democratic party's campaign wars and battle cries, from the New Deal to the New Frontier.

Personified it is the haters' Alex Rose who turned Jim Farleyism into a new political art. Of course, the Liberal party is also Dave Dubinsky, whose mammoth garment center rally marked the spot from which John Kennedy kicked the few extra points he needed to win the big game.

The story of these two banquets in the story of things to come on the New Frontier. Never have labor leaders been so sophisticated and expertly active around the clock and around the year.

They have already alerted thousands of their branches, not only in New York, but in the South especially, to swing into the 1961 election drives. Now, not manana.

It may suddenly dawn on others what the labor leaders know so well: There are important elections this year in more than 700 cities with a population of 10,000 or more. These include six of the nation's largest cities, such as New York, Birmingham, Atlanta, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dayton, Des Moines, Detroit, Hartford, Houston, Jersey City, Los Angeles, Louisville, Miami, Minneapolis, New Haven, Omaha, Phoenix, Pittsburgh, Rockford, St. Louis, Salt Lake City and San Francisco.

THIS MAY be an "off year" to some, but not to labor's national political machine known as the Committee on Political Education (COPE).

Its leaders have drawn up a report for the national AFL-CIO Executive Council which meets in its mid-winter Miami Beach session beginning Feb. 20. In essence it is a report which will be submitted by COPE director Jim McDevitt, will talk of the opportunities to bring in regional victories now that a friend is in the White House.

COPE will campaign on the practical political truism that no office is too small to win and hold in 1961, because the '62 congressional and gubernatorial elections are around the corner. These include the expiration of Pat Brown's term in California and Nelson Rockefeller's in New York. From there you can practically see 1964.

COPE REPORTS: "In addition, Kentucky, Michigan, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Wisconsin will hold regular elections for state offices (in 1961) that vary from state to state.

"Illinois will hold elections for county commissioners. Municipal elections will be held in every state except Delaware, Hawaii, Indiana and Oregon."

"Getting good men elected to City Council or an elective municipal agency requires the same type of educational registration and get-out-the-vote work as does electing U.S. senators and representatives. And their actions often have a more immediate effect upon the lives of the citizens than does a bill passed through Congress.... What the City Council does... will have an immediate and direct impact on trade union members."

In the South COPE told its people to prepare for earlier action than in the snow belt. COPE sent a message which said that "Nearly all political contests in the South are decided not by the November general elections, but by Democratic primary elections held from late winter and early spring through the summer."

"COPE urged advance preparation." So watch the banquets of the future. By men's places on the dais, ye shall know their politics.

Inspiring Event

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Ninth Annual Presidential Prayer Breakfast Held

Something truly inspiring happened at 8 o'clock last Thursday morning in the Hotel Mayflower Ballroom as the President of the United States, the vice president, and several members of the Cabinet—Catholic, Protestant and Jew—sat down together with delegates to the International Christian Conference at a prayer breakfast.

The occasion was the ninth annual Presidential Prayer Breakfast held under the auspices of the International Christian leadership. Simultaneously in 20 states, governors were present at similar breakfasts.

There was no reference to the so-called religious issue in American politics unless it was implied in the remarks of Vice President Lyndon Johnson, who said:

"In recent months our nation has re-examined and reaffirmed the principle of separation of church and state. We cherish that principle and the protection that it affords the integrity of each man's soul. I'm sure the principle has no stronger defender than the man who sits with us this morning as the President of the United States. But we need to remember that the separation of church and state must never mean the separation of religious values from the lives of our public servants."

In view of the fact that several months ago there was some doubt expressed that a Roman Catholic, as president, would attend any public functions concerned with religious matters on an interdenominational basis, the presence of President Kennedy was itself a refutation of such a theory.

HE NOT ONLY attended but made a speech in which he said:

"I think it is most appropriate that we should be gathered together for this morning's meeting. This country was founded by men and women who were dedicated or came to be dedicated to two propositions: First, a strong religious conviction, and secondly a recognition that this conviction could flourish only under a system of freedom."

"I think it is appropriate that we pay tribute to the great constitutional principle which is enshrined in the First Amendment of the Constitution, the principle of religious independence, of religious liberty, of religious freedom. But I think it is also important that we pay tribute and acknowledge another great principle, and that is the principle of religious conviction. In this nation, freedom has no significance unless it is accompanied by conviction."

"Therefore the Puritans and the Pilgrims in my own section of New England, the Quakers of Pennsylvania, the Catholics of Maryland, the Presbyterians of North Carolina, the Methodists and the Baptists who came later, all shared these two great traditions which,

My Foe Grows Smarter

By TRUMAN TWILL

My war with the cats at the Twillery has taken a new turn. The enemy, which always outnumbered and outmaneuvered me, now outsmarts me.

This is frightening. I think of it as pointing up a lesson for this great republic in which I pay high taxes for the privilege of being told I am niggardly with my spear carriers and shield bearers. How smart are they, pray tell.

It is one thing to know at the end of a losing clash that you never had a chance, really, because there were too many of the enemy in the first place. You couldn't be everywhere at once.

It also is one thing to tell yourself when you have been humiliated and manhandled that no biped can expect to get over the ground as fast as a quadruped built like a cat. It's true.

But when cats out-think you and outplot you, that's something else. What had been a battle of motion and maneuver now is a contest of the mind. If this is what those fellows who used to call themselves Bolsheviks have been doing to our side, no wonder Washington is breathing through its mouth. It's a fearsome thing to know you are in a contest of the mind when all your life you have been relying on footwork and fists. Intelligence is the secret weapon that tops them all.

The cat census at the Twillery has been standing at seven this winter, a level that will lift when the snow isn't so deep.

With the exception of a floosie named Eunice, who is so busy grooming her whiskers she is a gusher, this may well be the smartest covey of cats in this part of the country.

They concentrate 24 hours a day on getting inside the house and then deploying themselves so they cannot be evicted. Until recently their purpose could be blunted and turned aside at will by slamming the refrigerator door, triggering their conditioned reflex about sound and food.

It must have been the extreme-like silver threads, run through the warp and the woof of American history....

"While they came from a wide variety of religious backgrounds and held a wide variety of religious beliefs, each of our presidents in his own way has placed a special trust in God. Those who were strongest intellectually were also strongest spiritually...."

"The guiding principle and prayer of this nation has been, is now, and shall ever be 'In God We Trust.'"

Just before the President's address, Sen. Frank Lausche of Ohio and Rep. Bruce Alger of Texas spoke briefly in behalf of the Senate and House breakfast groups which meet regularly every week to discuss spiritual topics.

AN IMPRESSIVE SPEECH was given, too, by Dr. Billy Graham, who sat next to President Kennedy. Here are some excerpts from what the noted evangelist said:

"What are we to do at this hour? Which way are we to turn? Pope Leo XII—, in his famous message on labor, said: 'When a society is perishing, the true advice to give those who would restore it is to call it to the principles from which it sprang.'...."

"I'm convinced, after studying the race question, for example, in this country for several years, that we will never be able to legislate morals and we can never legislate love. It must come from within the heart...."

"A society is no stronger than its individuals. It must start with you, and it must start with me. I think it is highly significant that the President and the vice president and members of the Cabinet and Senate and House should be here at this hour, joining hands with governors throughout the nation to look to God. I'm certain this pleases the court of heaven, and without his help this nation is doomed...."

"I sense a new spirit in the world. I believe once again God has given to this nation a new opportunity under the leadership of our new President...."

It was an unusual setting. Between the speeches, there were readings from the scriptures—one of them a reading by Robert McNamara, the new secretary of defense. Nearby sat Adlai Stevenson, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman, Secretary of Labor Goldberg, Postmaster General Day, Secretary of the Treasury Dillon, Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary of Commerce Hodges.

The whole session lasted 1½ hours and, when it was over, the President and vice president and Billy Graham stopped in to say a few words to a special meeting held concurrently for the wives of the delegates and members of Congress.

Mr. Kennedy got loud applause as he remarked with a smile: "It seems to me that in the true Christian spirit next year we should all sit down together and that we should have gentlemen and ladies pray and reason together and not confine them to different rooms."

ly cold weather that revealed to them they were paying too high a price for a perfunctory lunch. They began to balance in their minds whether they wanted the lunch or the comfort and security of a warm house, and they favored the latter.

They figured out that they would get their main meal each day regardless of how many impromptu lunches they missed. Beyond that, they figured out how not to miss even the lunches, because if they split into two groups, one group always could let itself be lured outside by the lunch bait while the other group stayed comfortable in various parts of the house. Then by alternating between groups, they made certain that some cats always would be inside and equally certain that no cats always would be outside.

That was using the old head, and such intelligence on the part of lower animals is creepy. Those cats already had figured out how to race into the house under dogs and squeeze into shallow apertures where no one ever would look for anything the size of a cat. They had found out how to steer suspicion away from themselves on the matter of being barn cats that were not housebroken. You do that by purring.

Loans and grants to depressed areas, Ellender added, "would place the federal government in direct competition with communities in other parts of the country which also are trying to attract new industry."

Speaking along the same lines, Keating said "we've got to make sure we don't go overboard and make things worse. Any bill worth its salt must therefore explicitly prevent the taking of an industry from one distressed area and moving it to another."

Americans for Democratic Action criticized the Kennedy program for not moving fast enough "to get the country out of the recession quickly and fully." The ADA called for an immediate tax cut of $100 per taxpayer.

Patrolmen said an eastbound car operated by L. D. Everett, 29, of Lisbon, sideswiped on a curve with a westbound auto driven by Lewis Marion Little, 72, also of Lisbon. The impact of the crash caused the Little car to go off the side of the road and hit a guard rail, patrolmen said.

In a traffic mishap occurring at 5:45 a.m. today on Rt. 164, just south of Lisbon, a northbound auto driven by James Matthew Smith, 64, of Salineville, slid off the road into a truck-trailer cab parked along the east end of Rt. 164 by George Francis Schell, 35, of Hanoverton.

first jailed near Leopoldville. But three weeks ago the ex-premier was brought to Katanga Province on the ground he could be detained more safely here.

Tshombe has insisted Lumumba made a genuine escape last week. But he declared Lumumba's fate was an internal matter and none of the United Nations' business.

U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld had sent Brig. Gen. Mengasha Hyassu of Ethiopia, chief of staff of the U.N. command, to investigate Lumumba's fate.

Sunday Tshombe said he was awaiting a full report from his own investigators.

A newspaper in Durban, South Africa, reported from Elisabethville that it was believed the battered, blindfolded ex-premier was shot to death Jan. 17, just after he was flown to Elisabethville from the Leopoldville area for more secure imprisonment.

The U.N. command reported two opposing Congo armies were converging on Bumba, a river town on the frontier of Lumumba-aligned Oriental Province. A third force of Katanga soldiers was on the move in its own province.

The troop movements heightened U.N. officials anxiety that fullscale civil war might break out.

dinarily interesting and exciting adventure."

Some British observers viewed the Soviet feat as a military warning to the West.

"If the Russians can hit Venus 26 million miles away," said the tabloid Daily Sketch, "it would be child's play to pinpoint earth targets from only 100 miles out in space."

The latest Soviet space probe came eight days after the launching of a 7-ton monster satellite whose apparent radio silence mystified Western scientists.

A. Mikhailov, director of the Pulkovo Observatory, reported that the distance between Venus and the earth is now 52.8 million miles but is shortening each day by almost 60,000 miles.

"In the second half of May," Mikhailov told Tass, the Soviet news agency, "the rocket will make its closest approach to Venus and it is possible that this brief span of time will yield more information about this planet than the entire previous history of investigations."

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I used to go with a girl but dropped her because she got too spooky.

This girl was sort of spiritualist and she told me she'd put a hex on me for quitting her. I don't believe in evil spirits but this is what has happened:

I'm a mechanic in a machine shop and I operate seven-horse power motor. Since I left that girl the motor will not run. Being a mechanic I took it apart every which way and could find nothing wrong. I took it to two other mechanics and they can't explain it. The motor will run in THEIR shops but not in mine!

My car has been giving me trouble, too. I can't get more than five miles to the gallon. I even changed carburetors but it didn't help. Can it be that she has cast a spell over my motors? How do you explain this?—VAN.

Dear Van: No one has the power to cast a spell over anyone or anything. This is phony, voodoo malarky. "Spellcasters" shake people up by scaring them half to death. Scared people can't function as well as they should and when things go wrong they persuade themselves it's because of the spell.

I'm no mechanic but I can tell you from here that there's something mechanically wrong with your motors. Trade them in on new ones. If something goes wrong with the new motors it will be attributable to more mechanical trouble... which would be a rotten coincidence.

Now, She's Sorry

Dear Ann: How can a foolish 16-year-old girl patch up the damage she has done to a boy's feelings?

Howie asked me to a big dance. I accepted. A few of the me-overs at school said: "But isn't he shorter than you?" Well, he is (about three inches) but I never thought of it. He's a swell kid, brilliant student and so much fun. I never realized he was such a runt.

When we got to the dance I began to feel self-conscious and said I had a blister on my heel. I'm sure he caught on because I danced with other fellows and he saw me. Naturally he had a bum evening but said nothing.

Now I could kick myself. I want him to ask me out again because I know I was stupid. Help me fix this!—GIGI.

Dear Gigi: Put on your high heels and walk over to the boy and tell him exactly what you told me. Tell him you'd love the chance to date him again and you hope he'll ask you. Then dance with your head on his shoulder.

Souvenir Loot

Dear Ann: My brother and his wife call themselves "souvenir hunters." I have another name for them. Please tell me if I'm right.

They take towels, silverware, ashtrays (and whatever they can get in a pocketbook or suitcase) out of hotels, restaurants, off trains and planes, private clubs and so on. The linen and silver is all clearly marked "Hilton Hotels, Sheraton, New York Central" and so on. These people have children who can read and I think they are setting a poor example.

Am I right or am I overly critical because I want to consider myself better than they are—as my husband says?—NOT BUDG-ING.

Dear Not: Silverware, ashtrays and linen are provided as part of the service. They are not meant to be carried away as souvenirs.

It's very confusing to youngsters to be told they must not steal, when their parents blithely lift property and bring it home as if it belonged to them.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TIMES THREE by Phyllis McGinley. Sub-titled "Selected verse from three decades" the collection also contains seventy new poems. There is a foreword by W. H. Auden, a poet also much admired. Miss McGinley has a well-developed and sometimes devastating sense of humor. She is also an old-fashioned poet in that when you read her work it makes sense.

COPLAND ON MUSIC by Aaron Copland. A miscellany of opinions and comment on musicians and music of the American scene.

PLAYING WITH WORDS by Joseph T. Shipley. All kinds of games involving words, explanations and samples of all sorts of classes of humor such as spoonerisms, boners.

SHAKESPEARE'S PROGRESS by Frank O'Connor. A study of the development of the talent of Shakespeare. He is very frank in expressing criticism where he thinks that Shakespeare is at fault and just as ready to give praise where he thinks it is deserved.

CONFESSIONS OF AN ART ADICT by Peggy Guggenheim. Witty reminiscences of the author's life from childhood to now—more about her interest in art than about her own life.

HOW TO RUN A SUCCESSFUL INVESTMENT CLUB by Raymond Trigger. New edition of this authoritative handbook on how to handle the affairs of an investment club.

RUSSIA'S ROCKETS AND MISILES by Albert Parry. Dr. Parry has gleaned his information for this book by careful scrutiny of Russian publications on the subject. We, the public should certainly be grateful to him for the service—and each of us interested in knowing the truth should make it our business to read it.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN BOOK OF PROJECTS FOR THE AMATEUR SCIENTIST by C. L. Strong. A very great variety of subject matter is to be found in this compilation by the author of a column for amateur scientists in the Scientific American magazine. From sundials to rockets, from astrophysics to nature study.

LIVING LABORATORY by James Donald Witherspoon and Rebecca Hutto Witherspoon. Sub-titled: 200 experiments for amateur biologists. Some of these experiments are quite technical, others are easily accomplished. Many of them are similar to those performed in biology classes, but this is not a text.

ADVENTURES IN ALGEBRA by Norman A. Crowder and Grace C. Martin. (A Tutor Text)

TRACHTENBERG SPEED SYSTEM OF BASIC MATHEMATICS. Translated and adapted by Ann Cutler and Rudolph McShane, this book presents the Swiss mathematics teacher's methods of teaching children to do fantastic problems in mathematics with the utmost speed. The system is explained first by arithmetic and then by algebra.

MIRACLE IN THE EVENING by Norman Bel Geddes. There is glamour in even the name of this famous man, although, unlike so many people in show business, it is his own, and his origins are from ordinary people. He tells his story in a straightforward way, beginning with his childhood up to young manhood. From there he traces his path from one area of the theatrical world to another.

DEATH TO TRAITORS by Jacob Moglever. Spy stories are always intriguing and this is no exception. It's subject is the man who was the most feared of all Union spies during the Civil War, Lafayette C. Baker.

I, BENEDICT ARNOLD by Cornel Lengyel. A fresh interpretation of Arnold's role in the revolution and a fascinating picture of the men and women present at the birth of a nation. The author's "Four Days In July" is one of the best accounts ever written about the forging of the Declaration of Independence.

A FOOT IN THE DOOR by

Alfred C. Fuller. Autobiography of the founder of the Fuller Brush Co. this is almost self-effacing in its insistence that the author has no special claims to greatness—indeed that he was and is a man far below the average in capability and personality.

JOHN KEATS by Catherine Owens Pearce. A lively and easy-to-read biography of the poet whose creative years were so short, yet whose poetry is known wherever the English language is studied.

FICTION

THE CHESS PLAYERS by Francis Parkinson Keyes. A novel of a very different type than those Mrs. Keyes usually writes, this has a historical background. The hero is Paul Morphy, New Orleans Creole who became world's chess champion. He also played an important part for the Confederacy during the Civil War.

A TOUCH OF JOSHUA by Cecilia Bartholomew. A man's wife is killed and both of his legs are broken in an automobile accident. He, but only he, thinks it was all the fault of the other driver, a beautiful woman. She tries her very best to help him.

SYLVIA by E. V. Cunningham. A detective who wants to be a professor traces the past of a beautiful woman whose fiancée hires him. There is much that is sordid, but also much that is beautiful and idealistic in this book.

RUAN by Bryher. Sixth century Britain is here brought back to life with a vividness not usually found in stories of so remote a past.

DOCTORS ON PARADE by Elizabeth Seifert. Three of the author's "Doctor" stories reprinted in a single volume.

THE COLLECTED STORIES OF CONRAD AIKEN. Forty one of the best short stories by the man who is best known as a poet, but also writes very good short stories. In poetry, he has won both a National Book award and a Pulitzer prize.

Youngstown East Invades Salem Gym Tuesday

Bears Have Won 4 Games, Lost 12

Visitors Use Three Sophomores in Lineup

The Youngstown East Golden Bears, one of the two teams to score upset victories over Salem last season, will return to the Quaker gym Tuesday night—once again in the role of an underdog.

The Golden Bears went on to compile a fine 17-3 record last year after edging the Quakers by a 42-41 score early in the season on Jim Snowden's bucket as the buzzer sounded. However, this season Snowden is a freshman at Notre Dame and the Bears have been taking their lumps.

When Youngstown South crushed the Bears 55-39 Friday night, East's record slipped to 4-12. Salem had pinned a 62-48 defeat on South earlier in the season here.

YOUNGSTOWN EAST'S four victories have come at the expense of Niles, Badger, Youngstown North and Cardinal Mooney.

Besides their loss to South on Friday, the Bears have been on the short end of scores with Sharon, Campbell Memorial, Cardinal Mooney, Warren, Chaney, Rayen, Struthers, East Liverpool and Ursuline twice. The score of the Youngstown East-East Liverpool fray, played in Youngstown, was 56-41. East Liverpool played that night after it upset Salem 72-69 on the Potters' floor.

Coach Ed DiGregorio of East has been using two seniors and three sophomores in his starting lineup.

WILLY WYNN, 6-1 senior, has been his team's leading scorer with a 12-point average. The other senior, 5-9 Richard Richardson, has a nine-point average.

The sophomores in the starting lineup are Ted Lolakis, 6-4; Willy Marshall, 6-3; and Ray Mason, 5-10. Lolakis and Marshall are each averaging seven-points per fray and Mason has a six-point average.

The reserve game Tuesday will get underway at 7 p.m. with the main go to follow at 8:30. Officials will be Laverne Haidet and Jim Migliore.

Salem will have only one more regular season game remaining after the fray with East. The Quakers will close at home on Friday against defending Ohio Class A champion Dayton Roosevelt.

Canfield Clinches Turnpike Crown; Beats Springfield

Any hopes West Branch or United had of coping the Turnpike Conference basketball crown this season went by the boards Saturday night when Canfield pinned a 65-51 defeat on host Springfield Local.

The win enabled the Cardinals to complete their five-game Turnpike Conference schedule without a defeat. West Branch and United have each suffered just one league setback. Canfield was the villain in each instance.

Bob Dove's 20 points highlighted Canfield's win over Springfield Local Saturday. Jim Griggs contributed 14 markers to the cause.

Springfield Local, which closed with a 2-3 Conference record, got 18 points from Jack Rauch and 14 from Jim Allen. The Cards held quarterleads of 19-11, 31-28 and 47-40.

Palestine, Minerva Remain Tied In Tri-County Loop

East Palestine continued to dog defending champion Minerva for the Tri-County League basketball title as they trounced an invading Poland crew, 63-49, at Saturday.

The victory gave Coach Chick McBride's East Palestine quintet a 10-2 league record—the same as Minerva's.

Both Minerva and East Palestine have two loop games remaining, including a meeting between the arch-rivals at East Palestine on Saturday night in the final game of the season for both squads. The Lions pinned a 65-51 defeat on East Palestine in an earlier meeting at Minerva.

East Palestine's other league is Friday against Sebring. Minerva plays Lisbon the same night.

East Palestine had four cagers hit in double figures in their win over Poland Saturday. Big Jim McCloskey led the way with 16 points. Jim Hartshorn added 14; Ronnie Watt, 11; and Jerry Bush 10.

Bill Zimmer was Poland's big gun with 10 markers.

East Palestine held quarter leads of 18-14, 31-22 and 47-30. Poland also dropped the reserve fray, 52-39.

West Branch Hustles, Whips Wellsville by 11

Warriors Post 13th Victory 57-46

The West Branch Warriors out-hustled, outshot and outplayed a taller Wellsville team to post an impressive 57-46 victory over the Tigers before a large crowd Saturday night in the Salem Senior High gymnasium.

The speedy Warriors were in command all the way as Coach Joe Tucker's quintet chalked up its 13th win in 15 starts. Wellsville had a four-game winning streak snapped and now stands 8-6 for the season.

One of Wellsville's other six defeats came in the same Salem gym when the Quakers downed the Tigers, 47-43.

West Branch maintained quarter leads of 13-9, 27-21 and 40-33. The Warriors were led by a clever, 5-10 senior, Tom Baxter, who popped in 18 points on nine fielders.

NORM WALLACE, a 5-7 junior, tossed in 15 markers. The little hotshot killed the Tigers with his deadly jump-shooting from the side.

Fred Brunner, 6-2 senior, was also in double figures for the Warriors. He hooped 12 points. Dick Loudon wound up with nine.

The rangy Wellsville team was paced by veteran Phil Baldwin, 6-1 senior, who had 15 points. West Branch held 6-3 Bob Kiggins, Wellsville's ace, to just 12 points. He had been averaging over 20 per game.

Steve Baldwin, a 6-5 sophomore, contributed 11 points to the Wellsville scoring attack.

West Branch was able to overcome Wellsville's big height advantage with speed and superior shooting.

THE WEST BRANCH Reserves also looked sharp Saturday as they posted a 61-41 defeat on the Tiger Jayvees.

West Branch has three games remaining on its schedule before opening Sectional Tournament play at Alliance. The Warriors will entertain Jackson-Milton Tuesday night and United on Friday. They then close with a road game Saturday against Beaver Local.

The first tournament game for the Warriors will be on Feb. 24 against Canton Glenwood. If West Branch gets by Glenwood, it then will play Alliance the following night.

The final of the Alliance Sectional are scheduled for Feb. 28. The survivor from this tourney will advance to District play at Canton.

THERE ARE SIX TEAMS in the Alliance Sectional. Alliance, Glenwood and West Branch are in one bracket. Minerva, Marlington and Sandy Valley are in the other bracket.

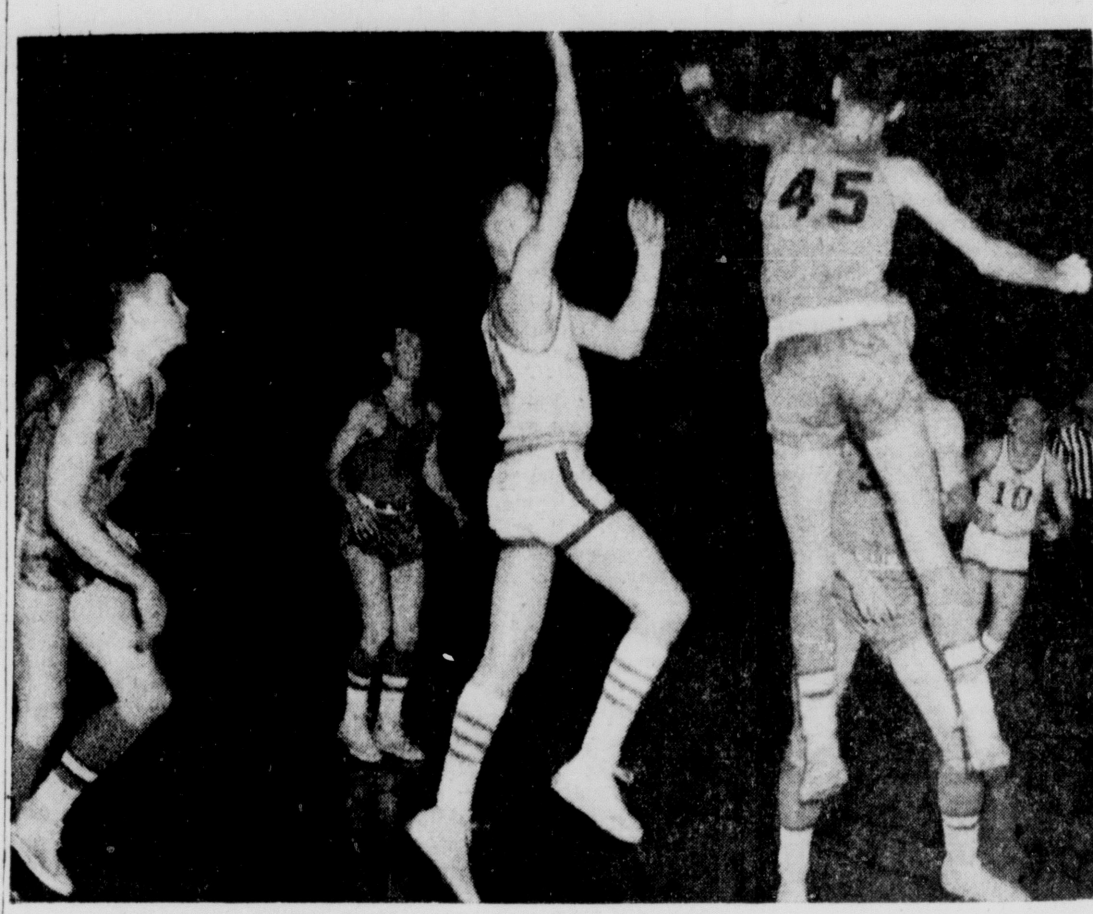

Despite their 13-2 record, West Branch got last choice in the drawings at Alliance. Minerva, a team West Branch defeated 41-37, and Alliance, which has lost seven of 16 games this season, were the seeded clubs. Both Alliance and Minerva selected first round byes.

Sandy Valley, which has a 13-3 record, was jolted 69-53 by Alliance Saturday night. Canton Glenwood has a 7-9 record.

WEST BRANCH—57
Loudon 4-1-9; Brunner 6-0-12; Baxter 9-0-18; Sanders 0-0-0; Wilson 1-1-3; Wallace 1-1-15.

WELLSVILLE—46
Kiggins 6-2-12; S. Baldwin 5-1-11; Ferguson 1-1-3; P. Baldwin 7-1-15; Jones 0-2-2; Ours 1-1-3.

Wellsville 9 21 33 46

WEST BRANCH POURS IT ON—Capt. Dick Loudon of West Branch pumps in a one-hander which helped his team to a 57-46 cage victory over Wellsville Saturday night in the Salem Senior High gym. Going high in an unsuccessful effort to block the shot is Rod Ferguson (45) of Wellsville. Other Wellsville players in the picture are Bob Kiggins (43), Roger Ours (13) and Phil Baldwin (facing Ferguson). No. 10 is Norm Wallace of West Branch.

Class A Pairings Set

County Tourney Has Three Entries

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

The Columbiana County Class A basketball tournament will get underway at Beaver Local High School on Feb. 21 with United taking on Salineville.

The only other team taking part in the tournament, Fairfield-Waterford, drew a bye and will play the Salineville-United winner at Beaver Local on Feb. 24. The winner of this game will then advance to the Class A Sectional Tournament at Canton Field House.

Fairfield-Waterford drew a bye in the County tournament because its 12-4 record is the best of the three teams participating. Salineville has a 7-10 mark and United is 6-11.

United Dumps Salineville
Salineville and United split even in two regular season games with each winning on its home court. The Indians' victory was by a 59-54 score. United got even Saturday night by dumping Salineville 71-51.

In that game Johnny Hanna of the Eagles popped in 29 points to set a new season high for his club. The previous high was set just the night before by Hanna when he hooped 25 points in a losing effort against Carrollton.

The 54-point spree by the 5-10 flash over the weekend raised his season total to 218.

United's leading scorer for the season, Jerry Schaffer, dropped in 24 points Saturday to run his Turnpike Conference pace setting total to 291. Schaffer, like Hanna, is a junior.

Salineville's high man Saturday was Jack Baker who hooped 19 points. Ron Giamone, who is averaging up around the 20 mark, was held to 11 markers by the Eagles Saturday.

Fairfield Whips Greenford
Fairfield-Waterford chalked up its 12th win in 16 starts by downing Greenford, 59-50.

Russ Dillon led the Rebels with 15 points. Clarence Kannel added 12 and Tom Messenger contributed 14 for Fairfield-Waterford.

High point man for Greenford was Harry Paulin with 17, his best scoring effort of the season. Gary Wilt added 14 and Dick Arnold had 10. Clyde Shoff, Greenford's top scorer this season, sat out his second game in a row because of a sprained ankle suffered in practice Thursday.

This was the second time this season that Fairfield—Waterford had defeated the Bobcats.

The game Saturday was an Inter-County League affair which left Greenford with a 2-2 loop mark while the Rebels finished up league play with a 3-2 record. McDonald won the Inter-County League title with five straight victories.

Teams Have Met Before
Fairfield-Waterford played both United and Salineville twice during the regular season. The Rebels defeated United by scores of 50-33 and 55-42. The Rebels split with Salineville, winning the first game, 65-49, but losing the second fray, played on Fairfield-Waterford's home court, 65-61. However, the Rebels' ace, Tom Messenger, sat out the second game against the Indians because of an injury.

The survivor of the Columbiana County Class A tournament will find three other Columbiana County Class A schools in the Sectional Tournament at Canton. They will be Leetonia, Lisbon and Columbiana.

Akron Jars Capital; Marietta Wins

Wittenberg Trips Muskingum To Gain 3rd Conference Title

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Wittenberg holds the Ohio Conference basketball championship for the third straight year today. No team has dominated the sprawling loop to such an extent since Mount Union grabbed five titles in a row in the late '20s and early '30s.

The Springfield team, boasting nine straight wins in the league, has only Ohio Wesleyan's second placers to play before tournament time. But the Bishops have dropped three in the circuit and cannot topple the Lutherans from the throne.

Wittenberg clinched it Saturday with a 55-43 win over Muskingum, as Capital was ousted from second in a 72-56 loss to Akron, and Wooster fell from third with a surprising 70-63 loss to Marietta on the Scot floor.

Under 33-year-old Ray Mears, Miami grad, Wittenberg has compiled an 89-18 record in five seasons, and has won its last 44 at home. In the four losses this season were a one-pointer to Dayton and a two-pointer to Ohio University, both on foreign hardwoods.

While other teams play fire engine ball, the Tigers, play a deliberate game. For 18 games this year they are averaging only 59.8—but have held the foe to 41.2.

As Wittenberg holds down the scores to win the title, Ohio State is piling up points in practically clinching the Big Ten laurels.

Jerry Lucas, the fabulous youngster from Middletown, scored 48—a Western Conference record—in Saturday's 83-68 win over Michigan State.

That gave the top-ranked Bucks 18 straight for the season, 23 over two campaigns, and an 8-0 record in the Big Ten. Jerry made 19 of 26 from the field, 10 of 12 from the free throw line, and grabbed 21 rebounds as his name went into the record books.

Ohio University, for the second time this year, needed more than regulation time to subdue Kent State, 102-92, as the Bobcats moved far out front in the Mid-American with a 9-1 record to Toledo's 62.

Miami eased into third place in the class circuit with a 5-4 record by smacking last-place Western Michigan 87-67. Earlier the Broncos had beaten Miami 79-59—also a 20-point margin—for their lone league conquest.

The Buckeye clubs won 15 and lost 9 to outside teams last week, and now have an interstate record of 158-114. Host teams won 37 of 55, and hiked their record to 313-150 over the guests.

A 56-game slate faces the Ohio teams this week. Among the big contests are:

Monday: Northwestern at Ohio State, Miami at Xavier, St. Francis at Ohio U.

Tuesday: Bowling Green at Kent State, Lake Forest at Wittenberg.

Wednesday: Western Michigan at Toledo, Akron at Marietta, Duquesne at Dayton, Ohio U. at Louisville.

Thursday: Wichita at Cincinnati, Capital at Ohio Wesleyan, Xavier-Iona in New York.

Friday: W. & J. at Case, Bethany at Western Reserve.

Saturday: Ohio State at Iowa, Marshall at Toledo, Bowling Green at Ohio U., Tulsa at Cincinnati, Capital at Marietta, DePue at Ohio Northern, Louisville at Dayton, Xavier at Canisius.

Louisville Dumps Sebring, 62-56

Sebring had four starters hit in double digits Saturday but the Trjans were defeated in a Tri-County League game, 62-56, by an invading Louisville quintet.

Ray Dorr hooped 18 points; Dale Mingleford and Jim Akenhead contributed 13 apiece; and Jerry Greiner added 12 in a losing effort for their 13th game in 16 starts. They have a 3-9 loop mark. Louisville, who was led by Gary Allen's 18 points Saturday, has a 5-7 Tri-County League record and a 6-10 overall mark.

Italian Wins 5th Straight 2-Man Bobsled Crown

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. (AP)—Hardly pausing to look back on a superb performance in getting his fifth straight 2-man world bobsled championship, Italy's Eugenio Monti today began preparing to defend the world 4-man crown next weekend.

Monti drove his sled like a wayward comet Sunday and shattered all two-man speed records on the mile, Mt. Van Hoevenberg run. His 4-heat time of 4 minutes 42.67, smashed Stan Benham's old mark of 4:42.83 set almost four years ago.

The topper was an almost fantastic 1:09.22 ride over the final heat that crushed the hopes of a young American Marine, 24-year-old Gary Sheffield, whose Dad used to ride with Benham.

Sheffield surprised the European-dominated contingent by finishing second with a time of 4:45.74. He, too, buzzed down the mile in the final heat in superlative time, 1:10.41.

Will Your Grandchildren Read the Bible... Or Karl Marx?

Nikita Khrushchev has said, "Your grandchildren will grow up under Communism."

If the Soviet Premier's threat comes true, your grandchildren will study Karl Marx. They will be told the Bible is nonsense... dreams about pie-in-the-sky. Your grandchildren will be taught godless atheism.

"Never!" you say. But are you sure? Are you doing anything to prevent it? One sure way is to help RADIO FREE EUROPE.

RFE broadcasts truth from the Free World to 79 million people in captive nations behind the Iron Curtain. People who are vital to the cause of freedom because they create a buffer zone between Russia and the Free World... a zone that ties up 30 Russian Divisions... keeps Russia from starting a war. But RFE needs your support to continue on the air. How about it? Will you help fight Communism? Secure the future of your children? Your dimes, your dollars help to keep freedom alive in the world.

Said bonds shall be dated the first day of March, 1961, shall be in the denomination of $1,000 each, shall draw interest payable semi-annually on the first days of June and December of each year beginning June 1, 1961 at the rate of 4% per annum. Any person desiring to do so may present a bid for said bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest, but not in excess of 6%, provided that where a fractional interest rate is bid, such fraction shall be in favor of the bidder.

Said bonds mature as follows: $50,000 on December 1 in each of the years from 1962 to 1964, inclusive. Said bonds are issued for the purpose of constructing a new high school and acquiring a site therefor, constructing an addition to the Goshen Center elementary school building, furnishing and equipping such buildings and landscaping and otherwise improving school sites.

Said bonds are payable at the office of the legal depository of the Board, The First National Bank of Salem, Salem, Ohio, and are supported by unlimited taxes.

Said bids will be promptly considered, and said bonds will be sold to the highest bidder offering the lowest interest rate at not less than par and accrued interest. In the event the interest on said bonds should by act of Congress or otherwise become subject to Federal Income Taxes prior to delivery, the successful bidder may refuse to accept delivery and in such event his bond or certified check shall be returned without interest.

It is contemplated that the Board will meet at 8:00 o'clock p.m. on the 21st day of February, 1961, to consider said bids and make an award. The bonds will be delivered to the office of the undersigned or such other place as may be agreed on with the successful bidder; if outside the limits of the School District the bidder shall pay an expense of delivery at that place.

Before making tender of the bonds at the place of delivery the Board shall give written notice to the successful bidder not later than the third day before the proposed tender of the fact that the bonds, transcript, notitification certificate, and approving opinion will be available for delivery and giving the date and hour for the tender at the said place of delivery, provided however that nothing herein contained shall prevent the making of a mutually agreeable arrangement for the delivery of the bonds either at the place fixed for delivery or elsewhere.

If such notice has not been given or waived by the successful bidder and the bonds, transcript, notitification certificate and approving opinion are not available for delivery on the 30th calendar day after the day fixed for the receipt of bids, and the successful bidder shall not be in default of any of his obligations, and shall have the right thereafter, and so long as no such tender by the Board shall yet have been made, to cancel the contract of purchase; such right to be exercised by delivering to the undersigned or to his office during business hours) written notice of such cancellation. NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS
Sealed bids will be received by the undersigned, Clerk of the Board of Education of the West Branch Local School District, herein referred to as the Board, in the Counties of Mahoning, Columbiana and Portage, Ohio, at the office of the Board at the Administration Building, Main and Fifth Streets, Beloit, Ohio, until twelve noon Eastern Standard Time, on the 21st day of February, 1961, at which time the bids will be publicly opened and read, for the purchase of bonds of the Board in the aggregate amount of $150,000, authorized by resolution adopted January 10, 1961.

Said bonds shall be dated the first day of March, 1961, shall be in the denomination of $1,000 each, shall draw interest payable semi-annually on the first days of June and December of each year beginning June 1, 1961 at the rate of 4% per annum. Any person desiring to do so may present a bid for said bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest, but not in excess of 6%, provided that where a fractional interest rate is bid, such fraction shall be in favor of the bidder.

Said bonds mature as follows: $50,000 on December 1 in each of the years from 1962 to 1964, inclusive. Said bonds are issued for the purpose of constructing a new high school and acquiring a site therefor, constructing an addition to the Goshen Center elementary school building, furnishing and equipping such buildings and landscaping and otherwise improving school sites.

Said bonds are payable at the office of the legal depository of the Board, The First National Bank of Salem, Salem, Ohio, and are supported by unlimited taxes.

Said bids will be promptly considered, and said bonds will be sold to the highest bidder offering the lowest interest rate at not less than par and accrued interest. The lowest interest rate will be determined by calculating the total interest to be paid on the bonds at the rate bid and deducting therefrom the premium bid. If each of two or more bids is the highest bid offering the lowest interest rate, the bonds shall be sold to such one of said bidders as is chosen by the said Clerk by lot. All bids must be accompanied by a bond or check drawn on and payable to the order of the Board in the amount of one percent of the par amount of the bonds bid for, upon the condition that if the bid is accepted, the bidder will receive and pay for such bonds in accordance with the terms and provisions of this notice, or, in the event said condition is not fulfilled, the bid shall be sealed and endorsed "Bid for School Improvement Bonds."

The proceedings for this issue have been taken under the supervision of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, Bond Attorneys, Cleveland, Ohio, whose approving opinion may be obtained by the successful bidder at his expense. A complete transcript of proceedings and the printed bonds will be furnished by the Board, together with a certificate showing no litigation pending or threatened at the time of the delivery, to enjoin delivery or to contest the validity of the bonds or the power to issue them, or the levy or collection of taxes for their payment.

In the event the interest on said bonds should by act of Congress or otherwise become subject to Federal Income Taxes prior to delivery, the successful bidder may refuse to accept delivery and in such event his bond or certified check shall be returned without interest.

It is contemplated that the Board will meet at 8:00 o'clock p.m. on the 21st day of February, 1961, to consider said bids and make an award. The bonds will be delivered to the office of the undersigned or such other place as may be agreed on with the successful bidder; if outside the limits of the School District the bidder shall pay an expense of delivery at that place.

Before making tender of the bonds at the place of delivery the Board shall give written notice to the successful bidder not later than the third day before the proposed tender of the fact that the bonds, transcript, notitification certificate, and approving opinion will be available for delivery and giving the date and hour for the tender at the said place of delivery, provided however that nothing herein contained shall prevent the making of a mutually agreeable arrangement for the delivery of the bonds either at the place fixed for delivery or elsewhere.

If such notice has not been given or waived by the successful bidder and the bonds, transcript, notitification certificate and approving opinion are not available for delivery on the 30th calendar day after the day fixed for the receipt of bids, and the successful bidder shall not be in default of any of his obligations, and shall have the right thereafter, and so long as no such tender by the Board shall yet have been made, to cancel the contract of purchase; such right to be exercised by delivering to the undersigned or to his office during business hours) written notice of such cancellation. Such bidder shall thereupon be entitled to the return of the deposit which accompanied his bid and it shall be returned to him immediately.

The right is reserved to reject bids.

A Word From ...

THERON'S

OLD COUNTRY STORE

Columbiana-Lisbon Road

Some time ago, I hired a young man, he was trying to do a good job for us. We had him working in the meat department, after the others had gone home. A lady came back with a package of meat, she asked if the bones had been cracked. He said, no mam - we don't put anything but good bones in our packages. He isn't with us anymore, but I'll bet he would have made us a good boy.

Lisbon Social

An enthusiastic audience heard "The Parade of American Music" program presented at the First Presbyterian Church Friday evening by the Lisbon Music Study Club.

Mrs. George Nulf opened the program by leading group singing of the hymn, "He Leadeth Me," and telling some facts about its origin. Mrs. Gerald Chappell was the accompanist.

A group of songs from operettas by Youmans, Gershwine, Friml and Coward was given by a girls ensemble from Lisbon High School. Harolen Knight was the soloist. A mixed ensemble appeared later, singing spirituals. Tannen Dillard presented a solo. Diana Boso, a sophomore, was the accompanist for both groups.

Sandra Toos, a high school pianist played the Scotch Fantasy by McDowell, and Paul Kosower, another student played the cello. Her Duke, Miss Camille Firestone played two violin solos, "Liebeslied" by Kreisler and "Fiddle Faddle" by Leroy Anderson. She was accompanied by Mrs. Greener.
